ClearOne releases free enterprise-grade control software modules to enable AMX or Crestron integrators to seamlessly integrate these systems with StreamNet to deliver The Power of AV Over IP for any size commercial control and AV distribution project.

"We're giving professional AV integrators the best of both worlds by combining our industry-leading StreamNet technology for scalable AV distribution on your existing data infrastructure with these popular AMX and Crestron control systems," says Durai Ramachandiran, Product Line Manager for Multimedia and Networking Products. "These StreamNet modules allow easy control implementation to any touch-panel or mobile device providing single-interface control for both AV distribution and room systems."

Each of the integration software modules allows customization so integrators can create their own graphical user interface for any StreamNet system using a sample program source code and instructions that come with the modules.

Both the AMX and Crestron integration software modules are now available for download.
