

pakedge

device&software inc.

Wireless networking product maker Pakedge Device & Software makes a first appearance at ISE 2013, with a stand featuring a full range of residential and commercial solutions.

Established in 2003 Pakedge specialises in meeting the demands of networks handling both AV and traditional ethernet-based device duties.

At ISE the company will show off wireless access points, network switches and routers, IP power, accessories and software, as well as services such as network design and solution packages.
