

Complete Home Automation Through Tahoma

Written by Marco Attard
05. 01. 2011

Somfy readies TaHoma (Total Home Automation), its mass market home automation solution, for global launch at CES 2011.

Tahoma combines shade (and other window treatments), lighting and thermostat control in a single system using both Somfy's own RTS technology and Z-Wave wireless mesh network technology-- meaning Tahoma seamlessly integrates with Somfy shades and all other Z-Wave devices.

Once set up is complete, users can access their home control through computer, iPhone or iPad anywhere around the world through Somfy's remote access portal. The system also supports user-defined home lighting and heating schedule presets.

A European version is already out in France-- while no pricing details are out for the global launch, the French Tahoma requires a monthly subscription model.

Go Somfy

Go Tahoma French Version