

Control4 Touches on Home Control

Written by Marco Attard
22. 02. 2011

ECI and rAVE Europe WebTV talk to Control4 EMEA VP Tony Leedham at ISE 2011 on its latest touchscreen control platform, InfinityEdge.

Even though the iPad now has part of the market, Control 4 still sees value in producing its own touchscreens-- even if Apple's device did bring about more awareness on touch-based interfaces.

The InfinityEdge in-wall touchscreen platform allows users to connect and manage all the home's networked devices and automation from lighting to movies, energy, security, temperature , music and more.

Control4 has a Europe-exclusive lighting range at the show, including DIN rail lighting and UK/European form factor dimmers and switches. The company's ISE stand also has demos from 6 technology partners, alongside a range of its latest apps.

Watch Control4 Interview at ISE 2011

Go Control4