Loewe adds another size option to the entry-level Bild TV series-- the Bild 3.65 is a 65-inch OLED set from the German company complete with built-in soundbar and Dolby Vision, HDR10 and HLG support.

Available in either graphite or light gray acoustic fabric options, the Bild 3.65 sits on an aluminium stand customers can swap for a table stand. Installers can also mount the TV on walls or floors. Either way, like the other Bild models the 3.65 is very slim (at just 4.6mm), and hides all cables behind magnetic covers on the back and sides to ensure a clean installation.

The TV runs on Loewe OS providing access to a number of streaming media services, including BBC iPlayer, Netflix, Amazon Video, YouTube, Deezer and Tidal. Meanwhile the built-in soundbar pushes up to 80W of power, and Bluetooth connectivity comes included in case customers want to pair the TV with wireless speakers or headphones.

The Bild 3.65 should be shipping now.
