CEDIA wants to close the year with members' opinions as it opens the 2016 online membership questionnaire-- a survey offering a chance to win an Amazon Echo.

The questionnaire features 20 questions divided in two sections, one focusing on member business, and the other covering their experiences with CEDIA. It is designed to help the organisation better understand its members, and thus covers the size of business, areas of expertise, geographical scale and training, as well as membership engagement.

“CEDIA is constantly striving to offer members a membership that fits their corporate needs,” the organisation says. “We have created this questionnaire to ensure we continue to deliver the best service possible for each member. Requiring no more than a couple of minutes, this is the ideal opportunity for members to highlight what their company’s focus in the smart home technology industry is and how they value and use their CEDIA membership.”

The survey can be found in the link below.
