Written by Marco Attard 31. 05. 2011

AMX will celebrate the opening of its new Dutch showroom's by inviting its customers and dealers to visit on the 29th and 30th June-- giving them a chance to check out its various offerings.

The company's product ranges cover unified control and automation, system-wide switching, audio and video distribution, digital signage and technology management.

The new showroom is in a Zevenaar technology park, and features working demos of AMX's full product range. The company will not only show its hospitality, but also offer guided tours of the facility.

The Dutch facility will also be acting as an AMX University training centre.

Go AMX