

Murideo Gets EMEA Distribution via OneAV

Written by Marco Attard
08. 12. 2016

US-based HDMI cable testing device vendor Murideo signs OneAV as master distributor for all of EMEA, a deal the two companies say will provide better support for customers across the region.

Installers and video professionals based in EMEA will be getting expanded access to Murideo testing and troubleshooting products, as well as in country support for the aforementioned products.

"The world of HDMI continues to evolve and grow in complexity at an exponential rate. For an integrator to truly regard themselves as a professional, they need professional testing equipment as part of their toolkit," the distributor says. "OneAV is excited to have been appointed as [Murideo] master distributor for the EMEA region and we look forward to supplying AV professionals across Europe with this awesome tool."

The partnership is already in effect, and one can already order Murideo products through OneAV. The distributor has warehouses in the UK and central Europe, with more EMEA locations to be announced in the future.

Go OneAV Becomes Master Distributor for Murideo All Over EMEA